New Sequoia Theatre to Open for Premiere Performance Tomorrow Evening, 6:30

The completion of the installation of equipment in the new Sequoia Theatre in this city this week marked the completion of one of the finest show houses in the state. The theatre here, though not the largest by any means, is rated as one of the finest specimens of theatrical construction. It is complete in every detail and when open tomorrow evening will be a revelation to those who have not yet seen the interior.

Work on the building was started last March by G. B. Pasquelletti, the general contractor. It occupies the central position in the block belonging to Hare, Brewer & Clarke, and formerly occupied by the old central school. It and the adjoining buildings, one of which is now completed, will form a complete and uniform front occupying the whole block.

The structure was erected for Hare, Brewer & Clarke, the plans being drawn by Reid Bros. of San Francisco. The plans of the theatre were prepared under the direct supervision of Ellis J. Arkush, proprietor of the peninsula chain of theatres of which the Sequoia Theatre of this city is one. Prior to planning his new house, Arkush spent several months in Europe studying theatre construction there and obtaining new ideas which have been incorporated in the new building.

The new theatre will have a seating capacity of 1500 and represents an expenditure in excess of $190,000. It will supercede the old Sequoia theatre, which has for the past 14 years been operated by the Arkush Entertainment Co.

Above the theatre the building is arranged for offices and contains a number of suites of the finest offices in the county. Practically all of these are now occupied, chiefly by physicians and dentists. In its offices as well as in the theatre itself, the building is complete in every detail, and contains the first elevator to be installed in Redwood City.

Interesting Facts

The new Sequoia Theatre has many points of interest. In its construction 100 tons of steel reenforcing were used. One beam alone, the one which supports the balcony is 72 feet long, 7 feet high and weighs ten tons.

The switchboard of the theatre is of the latest type. Scenes demanding varied light effects can be set up in advance and the entire scene changd by throwing one switch.

The sign in front of the building is 36 feet high and 6 feet wide. It contains 100 feet of neon tubing. The sign is operated from a transformer which steps up the 110 volts of the regular current to 15,000 volts. Five hundred lamps are used in the high speed traveling border which surrounds the sign. The lighting effect is enhanced by means of flood lighting on the tower.

The stage is 84 feet wide. The scene lines are capable of carrying 31 different sets or more. A heavy asbestos curtain traveling in iron slots closes the procenfum opening, which is 40 to 26 feet.

The organ of the new theatre is rated as the second best instrument in the San Francisco bay district.

The Broadway facade is latest type of architectural development in American architecture, which was developed to give relief from present day buildings of stereotyped style. Reid Bros. of San Francisco, old established architects, are responsible for the entire building, both stores and theatre. They have some 20 odd theatres to their credit in the Bay district. W. H. Rowe, connected with Reid Bros. supervised construction of the new Sequoia theatre and office building. This is the third job that Rowe has supervised for Ellis J. Arkush. Others being the Peninsula, Burlingame, and Varsity, Palo Alto.

C. W. Burchett was consulting electrical engineer. Burchett has studied theatrical lighting abroad and now is engaged in revamping the lighting effects in the Publix theatres on the coast.

Victor H. Poss was consulting construction engineer.

The new Sequoia block is a tribute to the enterprise of Hare, Brewer & Clark, who have given Redwood City one of the finest theatre and office building blocks on the entire peninsula.

The house staff consists of: Otway J. Cosgrave, manager; Edward W. Coleman, assistant manager; Miss May Griffin, cashier; Miss Vivian Zimmer, assistant cashier; O. H. Curral, organist; Stewart Farmer, relief organist; C. M. Conner, projectionist; Andrew Hilliard, relief projectionist; Harold Wolfe, stage manager; Leo DeMoss, doorman; Anthony Castro, service; John Watts, day sanitary service; Lars Horghein, night sanitary service.

Edward Coleman

Ed Coleman, who has been appointed by Ellis J. Arkush as assistant manager of the new Sequoia Theatre, has been with the Arkush theatre for the past four years. He is a former student at the Sequoia Union High School and also at Lincoln University in San Francisco. In high school, Coleman was manager of the school paper, the Sequoia Times, for two years, and was a member of the national honorary society of high school journalists.

Otway J. Cosgrave

Otway J. Cosgrave, manager of the Sequoia Theatre, has been in charge of the old Sequoia Theatre for the past two years. Cosgrave is an experienced theatre man. Prior to joining Ellis J. Arkush on the peninsula theatre chain, he held managerial positions with the Kearse Theatrical Enterprises in West Virginia and with the Ascher Brothers organization in Chicago.

San Bruno Clerk Arrested for Alleged Shortage

On Wednesday evening Deputy Sheriff Tom Maloney and Matron Dolly Grainger went to San Bruno, where they placed Mrs. Nettie A. Willets, former city clerk, under arrest. Mrs. Willets is said to have had a shortage of more than two thousand dollars in her accounts when she was defeated for reelection at the last election. She had served as city clerk for twelve years.

Mrs. Willets was brought to the jail here and at once released on $1000 cash bail. She will appear before Justice of the Peace Jackson for preliminary hearing. Mrs. Willets denies the shortage and declares that the whole affair is a political move against her.

Y. M. C. A. Leaders To Hold Meet Here

Leaders of Y. M. C. A. Clubs from all over San Mateo County and Palo Alto will meet on Saturday evening of this week at 6:30 P. M. at the New Canton Cafe in Redwood.

Plans for activities during the new year will be discussed and a leadership training course will be started.

San Mateo County Y. M. C. A. Clubs' participation in the "Californiad" will be discussed. This is an activity that will be promoted leading up to the Olympic Games in 1932.

Vitaphone Proves Popular in Burlingame

The debut of Vitaphone in Burlingame has created quite a problem for the management of the Peninsula Theatre. The rousing reception given to this marvelous invention on the oening day last Sunday continues to be repeated at every performance and hundreds of personal calls received during the last few days has left Manager Browne little time for anything else. Capacity crowds continue to fill the theatre. people coming from all sections to witness the marvel of the talking pictures.

The new program which starts a three-days engagement on Sunday will be headed by another Vitaphone talking picture entitled "State Street Sadie," starring Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy. Several Vitaphone vaudeville acts are included in what appears to be another splendid program.

WOODSIDE

Work has begun upon the new building that is to take the place of the old Live Oak Market which burned down about two months ago. A large force of men is at work and the building is expected to be complete by the first of February. The interior fittings and the market equipment are to be of the latest design.

Clarence Jackson, who arrived a few weeks ago on a visit to his brother, William Jackson, has decided to remain at Woodside. He has purchased the property adjoining his brother's service station and will be interested with his brother in the business.

Thayer Messer, who is a student at the Montezuma School in the Santa Cruz mountains, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nat T. Messer at their home in Woodside.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen and family have been spending several weeks at the Jackling place.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Jarvis and family spent their New Year holidays with friends in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Audiffred and son spent the Christmas holidays with relatives at Berkeley and then went to San Jose to celebrate the New Year with friends there.

The Parent-Teacher Association held their first regular meeting of the new year on Thursday afternoon. Plans for the coming year's work was discussed.

The exterior of the new telephone building has been completed and presents an attractive appearance. When the grounds are improved according to plans, it will prove an artistic addition to our village center. The new telephone service is promised for February first.

We chronicle the death of an old and valued member of the community. Teddy, the old and faithful horse of F. H. Mighall, having reached the age of 38 years, a span seldom achieved in the equine world, and having seen many changes in the life of Woodside, all of which he accepted in a philosophic spirit, died very suddenly last week.

S. P. Promises Space for Cars Of Commuters

Assurance has been given to the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce by officials of the Southern Pacific Company that that concern will arrange to have the large tract of land owned by it facing the station made available for parking purposes. The need of adequate parking space for the cars of commuters has been evident for many months, and efforts have been made from time to time by the chamber of commerce to secure proper facilities for these cars.

It is stated by the Southern Pacific that a movement is now on foot to lease a portion of the property to one of the oil companies for an oil station. It is stated, however, that if such a lease is made, it will be made with the reservation that the remainder of the property must be kept open for parking purposes.

Former Local Man Is Radio Inventor

The following item which appeared in a San Francisco paper is of interest to people of Redwood City for the fact that the principal character is a former resident of this city. Barnes was for a number of years connected with the Times-Gazette. He made his home with his family on Arguello street.

CHICO (Cal.), Dec. 31.—Chico has made a double-barreled bid for radio novelty fame on this last day of the old year.

J. B. Barnes, local linotype operator and radio fan, announces that he has perfected a device that will permit receiving messages or programs from one station although another station may be broadcasting on the same wave length. He made successful tests, he declares when he tuned in on KOB and KEX, which were simultaneously operating on a 254.1 meter wave length.

Barnes described his invention as a very small device, an "inductance contrivance," which hooks up with the antennae. It will make it unnecessary for the Federal Radio Commission to eliminate any stations, he said.

While Barnes was discussing his invention Mrs. U. F. Bailey of this city was amazed when her water heater tuned in on a radio broadcasting program. The music, she said, came with startling volume and distinctness but faded out before the station was announced.

Exchange Club To Install Officers

Members of the Redwood City Exchange Club will meet next Tuesday evening in the Cafe de Paris on the highway at which time the recently elected officers will be installed in office. Ira H. Potter, district trustee, from South San Francisco will be present and preside at this meeting.

Kendall B. Towne, who was elected president to succeed Dr. W. B. Langston, will take office. The other officers are Jack Fox, first vice-president; W. J. Frost, second vice-president; Guy Kennedy, third vice-president; L. P. Gray, recording secretary; Al Davies, financial secretary; J. W. Locker, treasurer; Dr. W. B. Langston, Colin Stokes, Frank Griffen, Sidney Moore, members of the board of control.

Letters Asked For In Fonda Estate

Letters of administration in the estate of the late Abner S. Fonda have been applied for in the superior court here by Guy L. Fonda, son of the deceased. The elder Fonda passed away in Santa Clara county on December 17. Fonda is represented by Attorney Kinkaid & Fitzpatrick.

E. N. O'Neill, former football star of the Sequoia High School, who now resides at Dunsmuir, visited his mother, Mrs. H. O'Neill of Woodside, for the holidays.

Residents Protest Council Action In Changing Zones

A petition signed by 417 residents of Redwood City and protesting against ordinance 288 of this city was filed with the city clerk yesterday for presentation at the next meeting of the city council. The protested ordinance was passed on December 3 by the board of trustees in order to change the industrial zone of the town to include a piece of property on the corner of Jefferson street and the railroad.

The property was that of Thomas Nelson, who desired to erect a steam laundry on it. The change was protested both before the planning commission and the city council by A. M. Robertson, owner of the adjoining residential property, but the ordinance was changed to include the property in the industrial zone in spite of Robertson's protests. The present petition is to again bring the matter before the council.

Final Standing of Y. M. C. A. Teams

The final standing in the Y. M. C. A. Pioneer Football League was given out Tuesday with the finish of the final game. Play in this league has extended over the last six weeks with a great deal of interest on the part of the clubs participating.

The "Buffalo Bill" Pioneers of Burlingame will be awarded the championship pennant for 1928. The Marshall Pioneers of Millbrae came in second, Donner Pioneers of South San Francisco third, Roosevelts of Redwood fourth, Peninsulas of San Mateo fifth, and the Washington Pioneers of San Mateo sixth.

The next league will be for basketball. This will be set up in the very near future.

Dr. H. E. Mason Opens Offices Here

Dr. H. E. Mason, physician and surgeon, has opened offices in the new Sequoia Building for the practice of his profession. Dr. Mason is formerly of Boston, Massachusetts and Chicago, Illinois. In Boston Dr. Mason trained under Dr. Thorndike, professor of surgery at Harvard University; and in Chicago he studied under Dr. J. B. DeLee, the famous obstetrician. Dr. Mason is now chief of the medical services at the diagnostic center at Palo Alto.

Officers to Visit Camp H. J. Reilly

In the Civic Auditorium at Redwood City on Tuesday, January 8, at 8 p. m. Dept. Com. Clarence A. Son and staff will pay an official isit to Capt. H. J. Reilly Camp No. 14, Department of California, United Spanish War Veterans, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be installed. The Department President, Bessie Bassett and staff will visit Reilly Aux. No. 70, and install their officers for the ensuing year. After the installation of officers refreshments will be served in the Civic Auditorium.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

Women to See Monastery

To celebrate the one thousand six hundredth anniversary of the consecration of their ancient chapel on the island of St. Honorot, near Cannes, which was the retreat of Bernard Shaw during his recent stay at Antibes, the monks will be permitted to show women over their beautiful monastery. Thousands of pilgrims and tourists are expected at Cannes to take part in the religious ceremonies.

WHEN IT LOOKS DARK to any weak, nervous or ailing woman, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her aid. Women in every walk of life today say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a reliable medicine. It is made from roots and herbs, sold by druggists, in both fluid and tablets.

Mrs. J. E. Day, 1318 Jessie St., San Francisco, Calif., said: "For a long time I suffered from woman's trouble. I was so nervous that I never got a good night's rest, had pains in my side and my back was lame and ached all the time. I got so miserable and weak that I could scarcely do anything. But, after taking a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was in good physical condition, my aches and pains disappeared, my nerves quieted, and I was feeling so well one would think I never had a sick day."

Urged to Cut Ablutions

In a proclamation urging strictest economy in the use of water, the municipality of Barmen, Germany, has suggested that the citizens eliminate their habitual morning bath. The city is suffering from a chronic shortage of water which of late has become more accentuated every day on account of increased production in the Barmen silk industry. As a large part of the working population of Barmen depends on the silk industry, it is impossible to cut down its water supply, the city fathers assert.

It showed unmistakable signs of entirely human investigation. At least a hand with the usual equipment of thumb and fingers has left more than one impression on it. . .

Later: And now where are we? I am willing, even anxious, to accept Halliday's verdict, that the sounds we both heard in the library were due to an east wind blowing down the chimney, plus the settling and creaking of the old portion of the house.

But we have just returned from an inspection, in broad day, of the marks outside the boarded-up window of the den.

There is a complete imprint of the hand on it, and it shows a broad short thumb and a curved little finger. What is more, there is a complete absence of the usual whorls and ridges of the ordinary hand. One could take this imprint and put it side by side with the one in the bowl of putty. They are identical.

Halliday seems to have seen a great light from somewhere, but to me the situation is as absurd as it is maddening. It is as outrageous as that, out of some forgotten corner of my memory, I should have dug up a triangle within a circle, to find it cropping up soon after as the signature to a crime.

August 25

Five days have passed since the murder, and we are apparently as far from its solution as ever.

What work is being done is now centering about the county detective bureau in the city. A deputy constable keeps up a more or less casual surveillance of the property during the day, but is careful to depart before twilight. The dragging of the bay has once more been stopped, and Benchley's idea of an unknown enemy of Bethel's has apparently been abandoned in favor of Gordon as the killer.

At the same time we are not without developments, of a sort.

Although he is reticent on the subject, Halliday seems to feel that the experiment the other night, incomplete as it was, negatives the theory that the man I saw escaped by the broken window in the library.

"Then where did he go?" I asked.

"That's the point," he said. "Where did he go? When we've answered that we'll have answered a number of things."

But he tells me, surprisingly enough, that he has taken up a sort of temporary residence in the house.

"Whoever tried to get in the other night may come back again," he says.

I have offered to stay with him, but not, I dare say, with any enthusiasm. But he declines with a smile.

"You are too psychic, Skipper!" he says.

But it is perfectly evident that he does not want me.

This morning, going unexpectedly into the bonthouse, where this conversation took place, I found him sitting by his table, and spread out before him the bit of linen, the cipher, the broken lens and the top of the ether can which constituted our various exhibits before I was gently eliminated from the case. But he also had a box of figs and a hand mirror before him, and when I entered unexpectedly he was studying himself in the glass.

As he immediately asked me if I cared to go fishing, which I did not, I saw that he was not prepared to make any explanation.

The other development, although it does not solve the crime, or touch on it, came to me through Lear today, and throws a new and interesting light on poor old Bethel himself.

Lear did not like his errand; he prefers a presumptuous skepticism to an irrational credulity, and knows no middle ground. Those things which lie beyond his understanding he refers to as "poppycock," a favorite word of his. And today he prefaced his business with a small lecture to me, taking me into the drive to deliver it.

"You don't look like a man who has been on a vacation," he began, surveying me. "I know you've had a bad time, but after all, it's no possible responsibility of yours."

"I rented him the house. And I knew I had no business to rent it to anybody."

"Poppycock!" he said, and cleared his throat.

He had fallen into step with me, but at that he stopped and faced me.

"Now, see here, Porter," he said. "There's a good bit of talk going around. Some of your friends are saying that you and Jane are laying the blame on some d—n fool nonsense about the house itself. That's poor hearing, and it's ridiculous into the bargain. The Morrison girl was not killed in the house."

"I'm not sure she wasn't. At any rate, he was. And I believe the same hand killed them both."

"But a human hand, of course? You're not going to say—"

"Oh, I admit that," I said. "But there are a lot of curious things. If you think the house is normal, spend a night there and see."

"Normal!" he snapped. "Of course the house is normal. It's the people in it who aren't." And warming to his subject: "You and Cameron should be locked up together. And Pettingill," he added.

Which brought him to Cameron, and his errand. . .

Immediately on Cameron's return from the Adirondacks he had gone to bed with an infested hand, which had been torn by a fishhook, and had been too ill to look at the accumulation of mail. But the day before, although still very weak, he had gone through his letters, and there found one from Mr. Bethel, dated late in July.

In this letter Bethel recited various "abnormal conditions in the Twin Hollows house, and asked Cameron, at the earliest possible moment, to go out and investigate them.

"And he wants to come?" I asked Lear.

"I tell you he's been sick," Lear said impatiently. "He wants to know about showing it to the police. He doesn't want to be dragged in, if he can help it."

"You've seen it?"

"Yes. There's nothing in it except what I've told you."

"He doesn't describe these abnormal conditions?"

"No. But he said he had made some experiments of his own, and was anxious to have his results verified."

"Experiments? Using a red light?"

"He didn't say," Lear said, with some asperity. "A red light! What in heaven's name has a red light to do with the immortal soul?"

He enlarged on that savagely. Helena, he said, had been off in a corner saying, "om, om" to herself half the summer, and when she dozed off in so doing, would waken to claim that her astral body had been off on some excursion or other.

"I can't appeal to her reason," he said with a shrug of his thin shoulders, "but I have appealed to her decency. I've asked her if it is fair to intrude into the privacy every human individual is entitled to at times. But it's no good. She keeps a record, and I'm convinced it would jail her."

The only advice I could send Cameron was to use his own judgment concerning the letter. Personally, I do not see what value it has, save to corroborate my own ideas concerning the house. But it has suggested to me the advisability of asking Cameron to come here quietly and look the place over.

I rather think he wants to do so.

August 26.

All along, I have been impressed by the attitude of at least the summer public to our tragedies; as each one came it brought with it its temporary thrill: for a moment, one might say, the dancing stopped and a bit of drama was enacted on the stage. Then the curtain fell, the band struck up, and the whirl began again, with some inconsiderable of the dancers missing.

Poor Carroway's widow is working at one of the shore hotels, and has bobbed her hair. And a small boy with adenoids delivers our milk and chickens; I caught him this morning chalking up a triangle within a circle on one of the pillars of the gate.

The malt house shut and empty, a new assistant keeper at the lighthouse, and perhaps a closed room and grief at the Morrison farmhouse—these are the only apparent scars left, to mark our summer's wounding.

I saw Larkin this morning. He believes that we may be able to sell the property as a hotel site; as this would insure destroying the house, it seems the best thing.

But one other change I have not recorded.

Watching Halliday as I do, affectionately and not too openly, I can see a very considerable change in him. He is like a man lit from within by some flame, of vengeance perhaps, or resolution certainly. And he is moody at times; his old gayety is gone. He has put me out of his confidence, not because he does not trust me, but because for some reason he is afraid of me.

And the same, I think, is largely true of Edith in the last day or two.

It is as though he said, in effect:

"Keep out. It is dangerous. I am willing to take a chance, but I want to know that the rest of you are safe."

Now and then, however, I gather something. Thus yesterday he said: "You have to remember this; we are not dealing with a criminal, but with an idea."

Again, he has asked me for Uncle Horace's letter, and has been apparently making a study of it.

Only along the lines of what I call the supernormal phenomena of the summer does he show his old openness, and there he is frankly puzzled. My decision not to call in Cameron has, I think, disappointed him. But my reasons are sound. Cameron's coming might result in unpleasant press publicity for us, and more than that, puts me where I do not intend to be placed, among the believers in spiritism.

He accepted that decision without comment. But shortly after he asked Edith for the letter from Evanston, and sat thinking over it for some time.

"Of course, with a little imagination," he said, "you might figure that these people were somehow let in on what happened here last year. But why Evanston?" And after a pause, following a train of thought:

"Of course I suppose, if you grant a spirit world, you have to grant that where time and space do not exist and only vibration counts—whatever that may mean—you could tune in Evanston as well as—well, as easily as you can on the radio."

But he got up soon after, saying that we were all crazy and he himself was the maddest of the lot, and went away.

August 27.

Livingstone is a curious chap; dapper, fastidious and taciturn. He is almost too much of a gentleman; I have had the feeling, and I think Jane has also, that a part of his reticence is caution, that he is always watchful, subconsciously at least, lest the veneer crack, and something secretly vulgar be exposed.

I am still wondering why he came to see me today; he was sitting, gloved and spatted, in our small living room when Clara brought his card to me in the garage and I hurried in. Sitting, too, staring at our ridiculous parlor organ, with an odd look on his face.

"Haven't seen one for years," he said, in his clipped and yet deliberate manner. "Where'd you happen on that one?"

"It was here when we came," I explained.

He gave it another glance before we sat down, and then apparently dismissed it. But not entirely. Now and then he looked toward it, and once I saw a slight smile, as though back in his mind was some equally faint humorous memory. But he came to the point with a certain directness.

"You're a man of sense," he said. "I came because you've got a hand on you."

"I used to have," I admitted modestly. "Lately, of course—"

He bent forward.

"Use it," he said. "Don't let this spirit bunk get you. Easiest stuff in the world to fake."

"I don't intend to let it get me."

He brushed that aside, and glanced once more at the organ.

"You take a thing like that," he said, "and start it in the dark. It gets you creepy in no time. They all use it; it used to be organs like that; now its photographs. They say it starts the vibrations! Well, I'll tell you what it does; it gets you worked up. Sometimes it covers something the medium wants to do."

"So I imagine," I agreed.

His volubility suddenly left him then, and he seemed rather at a loss.

"Let it alone," he said. "Let well enough alone." After a pause: "There may be something, but let it alone."

And that, so far as I can make out, was the purpose of his visit. He showed a certain relief, as if he had got rid of something momentous to him, and soon after he took an abrupt departure.

Thomas tells me that another attempt was made to get into the house last night. He had left his pruning ladder outside under a tree, and found it upright against Gordon's window this morning. . . .

"After All," He Said, "Give the Poor Devil His Due."

Later: Halliday corroborates Thomas' story, with further details. He was on the lower floor, reading, when he was disturbed by the crash of a pane of glass above. He ran upstairs, but was evidently heard. There was no one on the ladder when he got there, and a thorough search showed no one in the house.

The window was the one through which we had watched Gordon leave the house by the rope.

August 28.

It is impossible for me tonight to draw any conclusion from last evening's discovery; I have not my old faith in circumstantial evidence. I can only ask myself if an innocent man hides in his own house. . . .

Jane had one of her bad headaches last night, and at eleven o'clock I took the car and went in to the village pharmacy. It was closed, however, and I was at a loss to know what to do. In the emergency I thought of Hayward's office; like most country doctors he keeps a medicine cabinet and fills many of his own prescriptions. I went there, therefore, and rang the bell.

It took some time and several rings to rouse the housekeeper, an elderly and taciturn woman, and when she finally opened the door it was to say that the doctor was away, and to attempt to close it again. I prevented this, however, and managed to get past her and into the hall.

"I only want to get some medicine," I explained. "The cabinet is in the back office, isn't it?"

"I'm not allowed to let anybody into the office."

"Nonsense!" I said sharply. "Anyhow, you are not allowing me. I'm going."

She seemed completely at a loss, and I thought too that she was listening. With my hand on the knob of the waiting room, caught the attentive look on her face, and found myself listening also. It seemed to me that there was somebody moving in the back office, and immediately after I caught the stealthy closing of a door somewhere. With that she appeared to relax.

"You are sure you know what you want?" she asked.

"Quite sure," I said, and went through the waiting room to the consulting office. She followed me and turned on the light, and stood there watching me intently. The room was filled with tobacco smoke, and she saw that I noticed it, for she said:

"My husband was sitting in here. I'd be glad if you don't say anything about it."

I am not suspicious, and the confession satisfied my faint feeling that something was not quite right in the house. I got the tablets from the cabinet, and being nervous about unlabeled bottles went to the desk; there, neatly piled up, were the month's bills for Hayward's professional services, written in his own untidy hand, and one not finished on the pad.

The woman was still watching me, and I managed to write my label, glue it to the bottle, and make my departure without, I think, showing that I had made any discovery whatever.

But nothing can alter my conviction that Hayward is hiding in his own house, and that he was in that back room when I rang the doorbell at something before midnight. Not even Halliday's opinion that, since Hayward is officially at home today, he had the right to be "not at home" last night.

"After all," he said, "give the poor devil his due, Skipper. He works hard, and why shouldn't he get back a day earlier than he is expected and steal a few hours to get out his bills? He has to live."

But he seems to me to be a trifle too casual about it. I admit that he puzzles me, these days.

August 31.

After all, one can find the mysterious where it does not exist. I may not yet know why Halliday considers it necessary to watch the main house at night. But I do know the reason for Livingstone's extraordinary visit.

Mrs. Livingstone, sitting with Jane during her convalescence, read the letter from Evanston, and is eager to form a similar circle, to sit in the house itself. And poor Livingstone is opposing it and is making, for some reason or other, quite a business of it. Mrs. Livingstone has apparently some absurd idea that we may receive "a clew, or something," as she vaguely puts it; and on my firm refusal departed indignantly convinced that I have lost a great opportunity to solve our mystery.

Later: Halliday wants the seance! Nothing has so surprised me in years as his willingness to join the table-tippers. But I suspect in him some purpose not far removed from Mrs. Livingstone's, although just what he hopes to discover baffles me entirely.

"Why not?" he said, when I told him. "After all, we have to keep an open mind on this thing, and we've had enough already to make something of a case for the other side."

"The other side of what?"

"The other side of the veil," he explained gravely, and then, seeing my face, was obliged to laugh.

"'There is a pleasure in being mad, which none but madmen know,'" he quoted at me. "I've heard you say that Descartes advises us to seek for truth, freed from all preconceived ideas. Who are we, to stand in the way of truth?"

"And we are to search for it, sitting around a table in the dark?"

"Precisely that, Skipper," he said, with sudden gravity, and has left me to make what I can of it. . . .

Twelve days have now passed since the murder here, and the police know no more than they did on the morning of the twentieth.

Now and then a car stops outside the gate, but our curious crowds are gone. Save that some nocturnal relic-hunter has chipped a corner off the sun-dial, the place is much as it was before. All this water over the dam, and it has brought us nothing.

September 1.

I dare say there is no type of investigation in which the grave—no pun here—is so mixed with the gay, as in this particular psychic search on which we are at present engaged. For, let Halliday use it for such purposes as he will, to Jane, Edith and Mrs. Livingstone it is a deadly serious matter.

Their reactions are peculiar. Jane accepts it stoically and without surprise; it is almost as though, from the beginning she has known that it was to happen. But she is nervous.

Edith shows a peculiar and rather set-faced intensity. Whether she knows that something quite different lies behind it, or only suspects it, I do not know.

Halliday, also, is grave and quiet. He is less interested, however, in the manner of the sitting than in its dramatis personae. The list he has made out himself; Hayward, the two Livingstones, Jane, Edith and himself. On my pointing out a slight omission, namely, myself, he told me cheerfully that I belonged among the Scribes and Pharisees.

"The Scribes, anyhow," he said. "You are to sit by the red lamp and make notes. I am particularly anxious to have notes," he added.

On the other hand, Mrs. Livingstone has entered into it with extraordinary zest. She appeared this afternoon, slightly wheezy with the heat, carrying a black curtain of some heavy material and demanding a hammer and assistance before she was fairly out of her car. As it was apparently up to me to furnish both I did so, but anything less conducive to a spiritual state of mind than the preparations which followed at the main house it would be hard to find.

To stand on a ladder in the heat and darkness of the den, and to nail up that curtain across a corner with no more ritual than if I had been hanging a picture; to place inside it a small table and a bell on it, while beside it leaned an old guitar, resurrected from the attic and minus two strings, struck me as poor psychological preparation for confronting the unknown.

The sun was low before we had finished, and as we sat resting from our labors dusk began to creep into the house. And with it came—self-created, of course—a sort of awe of that cabinet I had myself just made; it took on mystery; behind its heavy folds almost anything might happen. It brooded over the room, tall and menacing, with folds that seemed to sway with some unseen life behind them.

I left Mrs. Livingstone placing chairs about a small table and went out into the air!

The arrangements are now complete. Mrs. Livingstone has brought over a phonograph, with a collection of what appear to be most lugubrious records; she also promises Livingstone, alive or dead.

"I left him sulking," she said. "But he will feel better after he's had his dinner."

And to this frivolous measure we start the night's proceedings.

Notes Made During First Seance.

Sept. 1st; 11:15 p. m. Present: Jane, Edith Hayward, the two Livingstones, Halliday and myself. Livingstone and Edith examining house. All outside doors locked and windows boarded. The red lamp on small stand in corner diagonally opposite cabinet and my chair beside it. . .

11:30 p. m. All is ready. Mrs. Livingston at end of table, next to cabinet. On her left Jane, Hayward and Mr. Livingstone. On her right, Halliday and Edith. A red silk handkerchief over lamp makes light very faint. I have started phonograph, according to instructions. I was right about it; it is playing: "Shall We Gather at the River?"

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

The Matrimonial Shopper

MY FRIEND, V. V. McNitt, head of a big syndicate, is himself of Scotch ancestry and he is responsible for this story of a man from the land of his forbears.

A young Scotchman, methodical, painstaking, and sincere, as so many of his race are, had been a bachelor of long standing. Since coming to this country he had saved his money until now he felt he was qualified properly to support a domestic establishment. One day he went to a friend.

"I've about decided to get married," he said. "In fact, I'm looking around now for a wife."

"Where are you looking?" asked his friend.

"I'll tell you," said the Scot. "It's my belief that the girls who work as clerks in the big department stores here in New York are mighty fine types. As a rule, they are well dressed and tidy and good looking and have nice ways. They must be self-reliant or they wouldn't be working. They have to be intelligent or they couldn't hold their jobs. They know how to make a dollar go a long distance or they couldn't dress as well as they do on the modest wages most of them get.

My notion is this: On pretext of wanting to buy something, I am going to tour the big shops until I see a girl behind a counter who seems to fill my requirements. Then I'm going to find out her name and make private inquiries as to her character and disposition, and if she answers all the requirements I'll secure an introduction to her and if she seems to like me I'm going to ask her to marry me."

Six months went by. The cautious Scot and the man to whom he had confided his plan of campaign met again. The latter thought his friend looked rather careworn and unhappy.

"How are you getting along?"

"Well," said the Scot, "I'm a married man, if that's what you mean."

"Well, did you follow the scheme you had in mind—I mean the one you told me about the last time I saw you?"

"Yes, I married a girl that worked at Macy's."

"Congratulations. How's everything getting along?"

The Scot fetched a small sigh.

"Sometimes," he said, "I can't help thinking that maybe I might have done better at Gimbel's."

A Small Tale About a Large Nose

A NEW YORK playwright, famous for a gift of sardonic humor, was invited one evening to join an after-theater party at one of the Broadway cafes.

The prospective host told him he would be expected to pay some attention to a lady friend of his—the host's—fiancee.

The dramatist was wary. He remembered that more than once he had been called in at the eleventh hour to fill this role.

"Tell me something about this girl," he said. "Is she good-looking or is she one of those total losses?"

"Well," admitted his friend, "she isn't exactly what I'd call a raving beauty, but she's awfully nice—good company and all that sort of thing, you know."

"Yes, I know," said the playwright mournfully. "Well, for your sake I'll take a chance."

When he reached the appointed rendezvous at midnight, his worst fears were justified. Sitting at a table with his friend and his friend's sweetheart, was an exceedingly dumb-looking young women. Her most outstanding feature—and in this connection the word "feature" advisedly is used—was an enormous nook nose. To the dismayed eyes of the new arrival it loomed as the largest nose he had ever seen affixed to a human countenance. So, before joining the party, he fortified himself copiously from the contents of his pocket flask.

Presently, somewhat groggy but bearing himself with all proper dignity, he approached the group and introductions took place. With some slight difficulty he seated himself. His fascinated gaze meanwhile fixed upon the nose of his appointed vis-a-vis.

An embarrassing little pause followed. Nobody seemed to have anything to say. It was the befuddled dramatist who broke the silence. Bending forward and addressing the stranger, he said politely:

"I beg your pardon, but do you smell anything dead around here?"

"Why, no," she said.

"Well, then," he continued, with an air of finality, "there can't be anything dead around here."

Denver Mother Tells Story

Nature controls all the functions of our digestive organs except one. We have control over that, and it's the function that causes the most trouble.

See that your children form regular bowel habits, and at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or constipation, give them a little California Fig Syrup. It regulates the bowels and stomach and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to. It helps build up and strengthen pale, listless, underweight children. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it's purely vegetable, so you can give it as often as your child's appetite lags or he seems feverish, cross or fretful.

Leading physicians have endorsed it for 50 years, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows how mothers depend on it. A Western mother, Mrs. R. W. Stewart, 4112 Raritan St., Denver, Colorado, says: "Raymond was terribly pulled down by constipation. He got weak, fretful and cross, had no appetite or energy and food seemed to sour in his stomach. California Fig Syrup had him romping and playing again in just a few days, and soon he was back to normal weight, looking better than he had looked in months."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. The mark of the genuine is the word "California" on the carton.

Spoiled

Bentley Mulford of New York, who is forming an artists' models' union, said the other day: "There are a number of models who won't join the union. These girls don't live up to their duty. Spoiled, you know. They wail and moan about their hard lot, but at the same time they lay down on the artist. Halfway through a painting, his model disappears. All that work is a dead loss to him.

"These spoiled models, wailing and moaning in night clubs, are like the spoiled child.

"The spoiled child was crying, and his fond mother bent over him to wipe his eyes. But he dashed her handkerchief away and growled:

"'Aw, what are ye wipin' me eyes for? I ain't done yet.'"

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Romance of War

Kansas City, Mo.—Sixty-five years ago a young Confederate courier from Missouri and a Confederate "petticoat runner" from Mississippi met near Memphis. They never parted, and recently celebrated the sixty-fourth anniversary of their marriage here at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Victor both are more than ninety. Their romance began after the Confederate evacuation of Corinth, Miss. Young Bill Victor, whose home was at Shelbyville, Mo., was detailed to scouting duty with a detachment having headquarters in Memphis.

One afternoon he was scouting on a Union movement near the Tennessee-Mississippi line. He met a southern party, in which was Miss Mary Mitchell. The party had been to Memphis and was returning to the Mitchell plantation across the line in Mississippi. Young Victor saw Mary—and offered to escort the party to the plantation.

"I'd never paid any attention to soldiers until I met Bill," Mrs. Victor said. "I'd been busy fighting Yankees. But I did pay so much attention to him that we were married within a year at Memphis."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Victor are in excellent health. They are interested in politics and the scientific developments of the day.

"Why, bedtime used to be about 8:30 o'clock when I was a boy," he said. "But since the radio came in I never go to bed until the last one signs off."

Mr. Victor has not been in Shelbyville since he left home at the age of seventeen to join the Army of the South. He was under Gen. Sterling Price when the Confederates besieged Lexington, Mo., and forced the Union leader, Colonel Mulligan, to surrender.

His regiment's first engagement, however, was in the bed of the Des Moines river, "somewhere along the Iowa-Missouri line."

"We were slipping up on a Federal force, and, as it turned out, the Federals were slipping up on us," he explains. "We met in the dead of the night in the middle of the river and both sides went back to their own side of the river."

Mrs. Victor's services to the Confederate cause consisted chiefly of watching Federal troop movements along the Tennessee-Mississippi border and giving Confederates sufficient warning to flee to safety.

"We petticoat runners," she said, "were the best spies because the Yankees were not afraid of us."

THE THING IN HAND

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

The things which I have to do today, for it is early morning as I am writing these sentences, are very commonplace things, and for the most part very uninteresting ones. I must, as soon as breakfast is over, see a half dozen people on a rather disagreeable subject, and then must drive fifty miles to make a speech.

It is raining, and I know that the drive will be rather a dull one, and even when conditions are favorable I have never had any enthusiasm for speech making. I never feel slighted if at any gathering I am not called upon to speak.

I am balanced enough, however, and I have had enough experience to realize that it is the task in hand which for me is the really important thing in life, as it is for you. I must meet very disagreeable people and settle their difficulties as well as is in my power. I must make my speech with as much force and magnetism and directness of application as I can. If the rain comes down on the way, still I am dry and comfortable within and the fields between which I pass as I drive along are greener and fresher because of the rain. It is a lesson which we might all well learn that the task in hand, stupid and uninteresting as it may often seem, is for each of us the most important thing to be done well, and helps always in the satisfactory accomplishment of whatever comes later. I shall enjoy my vacation better and with a lighter heart from having done well what is before me today.

It is examination time, and Burton who is a most practical man, is eager to have the unpleasant task completed. He does not see why seniors are ever made to take examinations anyway. He wants to leave as soon as his last examination is over. He dislikes staying for the formal commencement exercises. He has a job waiting for him as soon as he can get to it, and he is itching to be away and to get at it. The task in hand irritates, and annoys him. It is the job he is going to which looks big and important to him, and which seems one to which he can give his best energies.

I have known Ferris for forty years or more. He has never got on well; he has never been satisfied with what he was engaged in. He has changed jobs a dozen times during those years. The job in hand has never been to his liking, has never seemed to him quite the work to which he could give his best efforts. It has always been the thing in the distance which intrigued him and out of which he felt he could make something. He has never learned the importance of the thing in hand.

Cave Woman Rules

New York.—The cave man myth has been exploded.

He has only a secondary position in his own home, a visitor to the home of the Pueblo Indian cave men in Santa Clara, N. M., found. And the spouse rules the home as well as his worldly goods.

Seeking out the homes of the original cave men of the United States, far away from the cities where now and then a so-called "cave man" makes his appearance much to the awe of a large following, Andrew S. Wing visited one of the twenty Pueblo villages remaining in Arizona and New Mexico, delved into their family customs and their history. He found them still loyal to the Catholic faith, maintaining a family life exceptionally free from friction and rearing children who are obedient and of the best behavior.

"The Pueblo woman is the absolute master of her home," Wing asserts. "There is no individual land ownership, but each man is alloted a piece of land which he can cultivate as long as he works at it industriously. When the crops are harvested and stored in the house they become the property of the wife. Most Pueblo marriages are successful and their family life is congenial. All observers comment on the obedience and good behavior of the Pueblo children."

In one great communal cliff house explored by the writer 1,600 rooms were discovered.

Sun Nearest Earth in January

Although we experience the warmest weather in late summer, the earth is actually nearest the sun in early January. From that time on the earth recedes about 17,000 miles a day. But during summer the sun is more nearly overhead so that its rays are more concentrated and it is this concentration that produces heat.

Ithaca, N. Y.—A novel collegiate stunt has been inaugurated by students of Cornell university here.

Served Good "Eats"

Shanghai.—Shanghai's midnight sons and daughters, devotees of the cabaret and dance halls, are mourning the passing of the city's most famous night life institution, "Jimmy's Kitchen."

There was no pomp or ceremony, no orchestral din or garish display about "Jimmy's." It was just a roughly equipped restaurant in the heart of a district where Magdalenes of many nationalities are quartered.

"Jimmy's" was owned by one Joseph James, a young American who served in the American army and was stationed at Tientsin. Fame came to "Jimmy's" almost overnight.

Three years ago the place was virtually unknown, save to a few soldiers and sailors. One night a prominent American, attracted by a sign reading "American ham and eggs," dined at "Jimmy's." He was astounded at the excellence of food and coffee.

Proudly young James informed him that practically all of his food was imported from America. The word spread quickly. Americans and Britons in large numbers flocked to the place.

Within a short time it became the fashionable gathering place of Shanghai in the small hours of the morning. The customers made many suggestions to James, but the latter would not change his equipment. He stuck to the rough board tables, the thick mugs and the thicker glasses. He steadfastly refused to supply other than paper napkins.

"Jimmy's" sold no liquor and none was permitted on the premises. A husky "bouncer" was constantly on duty to stop fights between seafaring men who patronized the place.

And night after night it was a common sight to see sailors in and out of uniforms, soldiers, marines, merchant marine sailors, beachcombers, dancing girls, clerks, Chinese, and men and women in evening clothes seated at the tables in "Jimmy's."

The once familiar sign "Jimmy's Kitchen," is gone now. The owner has gone into the cabaret business.

Sees Aluminum Take the Place of Cloth

The day is not far distant when people will wear clothing made of aluminum, says Dr. James Rubinfeld, metallurgist expert, of Berlin.

He points out that thin aluminum already is used successfully for the interior decoration of airplanes, for the outside covering of shoes and on fancy pocketbooks and ladies' vanity bags.

From this, Doctor Rubinfeld argues, it is but a step toward the use of aluminum as a substitute for cloth.

"Already," he says, "Germany exports to Italy aluminum brocades—that is, brocades for ladies' garments woven of fine aluminum threads. There is little danger that these materials will tear or crumple, because the sensitive metal has been neutralized and been made capable of stretching through layers of cellulose superimpressed upon it."

"Phantom Ship" Uncanny

German scientists are taking great interest in the demonstration on Ammersee lake near Munich of an unmanned mystery boat. It is a motor launch, which, on receipt of a certain signal from the station, immediately returns to shore in a straight line. If the transmitter is mounted on another ship the boat can be towed by wireless and the distance between it and the towboat can be adjusted at will. A large doll of uncanny appearance fastened with its hands to the steering wheel caused the natives to nickname the craft the "Phantom Ship."

Electric Lamp Progress

In 1900 it was said that the incandescent lamp with carbon filament was so perfect a device that it could never be much improved. It was at about that date that industrial research was inaugurated in the electrical industry. Since then the efficiency of the incandescent lamp has been approximately quadrupled, and the great increase in the intensities of artificial lighting made possible by the cheaper light. The new applications created by the new lamps have had a far-reaching effect on our industrial prosperity.

Record Birth of Lambs?

Five lambs at a birth is the unusual record established by a cross-bred Rambouillet-Cotswold ewe owned by George Rust, of Victor, Idaho. Twin lambs are common, triplets occasional; but more than that is very unusual according to J. E. Nordby, of the University of Idaho, who reports the occurrence in the Journal of Heredity. The lambs were permitted to remain with their mother for a few days, after which three were removed and reared as bottle lambs.

New Cloth From Plants

Soon you may be wearing clothes made of kendyr. This is the name of a fiber plant, discovered recently growing in large quantities in Asia, and found to produce textile yarn of high quality. A cloth made half of kendyr and half of cotton, tests show, is attractive and durable. Two tons of kendyr a day is to be turned into cloth by a new machine built for the purpose.—Popular Science Monthly.

Keeps Perfect Time

The turret clock in the Chichester cathedral in England has not varied a minute in the past year, declares the man who has been attending it for several years.

Endurance

"The family upstairs plays the same piece day in and day out!"

"Some record!"

"Gave Up Hope of Life!" Says Mrs. Robb:

(She Feels Much Better Now)

"I WAS so weak—couldn't sleep nor eat—couldn't digest anything—I was a complete wreck." [Many of us know the meaning of such suffering.] "I feel better now than I did at 16—never took anything but PE-RU-NA; I now eat everything—no matter what it is." [You can imagine Mrs. Robb's joy at PE-RU-NA'S wonderful relief.] "You don't have to have faith in PE-RU-NA—if you will take it, it will surely relieve." [Signed: Mrs. Sally Robb, Hawesville, Kentucky.] [And it's true! PE-RU-NA does its work surely, quickly and effectively. There is every reason in the world why you should have it in your home—get it from any drug store today.]

Taking Stock! Why Stultify Ourselves?

Sir: If any man living knows the ins and outs of statecraft and the machinations of politicians that man is David Lloyd George. Your readers may desire to apply his words to the coming senatorial tussle as to whether we are to swear off war or prepare for it.

Said he, "Wars are precipitated by motives which the statesman responsible for them dare not openly avow! A public discussion would drag these motives in their nudity into the open, where they would die of exposure to the withering contempt of humanity."

Here, today, after fighting a war to end war, is our own United States Senate bargaining and chaffering, peacemakers versus warmakers, whether to ratify, or throw in the discard, a pact to outlaw war, proposed and solemnly signed by our own Secretary of State in conjunction with the great powers of Europe in Paris assembled. Having in the late war, as companions in arms and allies, sworn eternal friendship, we are now urged to enter a race for competing naval armaments against those very friends.

Mr. Britton's proposal to the British Premier may have been "irregular" as to old fashioned diplomatic red tape; but it savors largely of common sense for international representatives, other than professional militarists and diplomats, to foregather and discuss the idiotic anachronism of war, and to condemn and really outlaw it by universal disarmament, similar to that so successful on our northern border. As a sample of what international agreement can do there is a most notable example in the Post Office, doing UNIVERSAL SERVICE both smoothly and effectively. Why not a Navy similarly organized for commerce protection if needed? Let 1929 bring in the Happy New Year of Common Sense and Real Peace.

Uncle Sam Printer

The Red Wing, Minnesota Republican said editorially, November 12, 1928:

"Uncle Sam's Post Office Department, which it is estimated will have a deficit of $100,000,000 during the present fiscal year, will continue in the business of competing with local printers in the furnishing of printed envelopes, having recently awarded a contract involving more than $15,000,000 in this connection.

"This means that one concern will have a monopoly of this amount of gross business, a large portion of which will be diverted from country publishers, who are practically the only class of business men with whom the government competes in this manner.

"The injustice of this practice is all the more marked because the printing is done for an additional charge of only a few cents a thousand over the cost of the plain envelopes—a charge so small that it covers only a fraction of the cost. The envelopes alone are priced higher than necessary in order to cover a portion of the loss on printing, but the customer thinks he is getting a bargain because of this juggling of price quotations.

"Having been victims of this unfair competition for half a century, it is little wonder that country editors are practically a unit in opposition to government operation of business enterprises. All fair-minded business men should assist the National Editorial Association in its efforts to eliminate this un-American practice.

"There would be as much justification for the operartion of retail stores by the government as there is for the retail sale of printed envelopes in competition with local printers.

Many Enjoy New Years Party of Firemen

The annual New Year's ball of the Redwood City Fire Department, always the outstanding midwinter event in Redwood City, was, perhaps, the finest this year that the department has ever provided. The auditorium of the firehouse was packed with revelers who enjoyed every minute of the enjoyable affair. Music was supplied by Heydenaber's well-known orchestra.

Every detail which would add to the joy of their guests was taken care of by the firemen. Caps and noise makers of various kinds were supplied to all and at midnight a great pile of balloons which had been arranged overhead, fell among the dancing crowd.

After the new year had been welcomed with enthusiasm, the crowd descended to the engine-room below, which had been cleared for the occasion and where a dinner of salad, turkey sandwiches, cake and ice cream was served. Afterward dancing was resumed.

A number of prizes were distributed during the evening, and Fire Chief Mark Ryan was made the recipient of an elegant gift presented by the other members of the department. The affair terminated at three o'clock.

The Menlo Park Fire department held its annual banquet at Cafe De Paris on Tuesday night. All report having a delightful time. About fifty firemen were present.

Granada Players to Play in Burlingame

A welcome change in entertainment fare will be given theatregoers of the peninsula on January 22 and 23 when the Granada Players launch a "play-a-month" program in Burlingame. The new dramatic stock company will offer first the hilarious comedy, "Cyclone Sally." This play by Eugene Hafer is considered by critics the funniest three-act stage vehicle of the present season.

Headed by Miss Laura Lane and Charles R. Courter, the "Cyclone Sally" cast is one of the best balanced ever seen on the peninsula stage and includes the well-known English comedians Percy Hutchings, Herman Schoenig, Thomas Branson, Ada Roberts, Lorene Meadows, Dolphine Martin and Evelyn Gilbert.

The Granada Players productions are under the direction of Thomas Irwin, a veteran of the legitimate stage. The executive staff includes Clarence W. Jackson and Lester W. Perkins. All plays are to be strictly high class in every respect, no expense being spared to give the performances a professional atmosphere and polish. Temporarily Granada Players productions will be produced on the stage of the Burlingame high school auditorium.

"Cyclone Sally," the opening play, is a dynamic comedy that sweeps through three acts so swiftly and so merrily that the audience hardly has time to catch its breath. The laughs follow so rapidly the result is a veritable roar. Every character in the play adds a full share to the fun making.

Lovers of good stage plays are reminded to remember the dates, January 22 and 23, and to be sure and attend this laugh-provoking comedy. Popular prices will prevail.

Large Sum in Taxes Delinquent in County

County tax collections for the fiscal year 1928-29 to date, although larger in amount than last year, represent a smaller percentage of the total than was collected a year ago according to County Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney. An unpaid balance of $1,002,583.56 became delinquent on December 3 and a 10 per cent penalty will be added.

Collections to date amount to $1,501,193.74, or about 60 per cent of the total charged against the tax collector's office.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Tax Collectors' association of California, the delinquency penalties have been reduced from 15 to 10 per cent this year. McSweeney favors the abolition of the 50 per cent penalty on taxes that have been delinquent five years.

"The present penalty imposes too much of a burden upon the taxpayer," he said. "Often he is forced to allow his taxes to go delinquent for that period.

"I am also heartily in favor of the proposal to 'outlaw' taxes even though a constitutional amendment may be necessary to bring it about. Many innocent property owners and recent purchasers in this county, during the past two years, have met with an experience that is not a pleasing one. As the law now stands, a taxpayer can receive the startling announcement that there is a charge against his property for taxes that went delinquent even as far back as 1861 and the burden of proof lies with him to show receipted bills."

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Charles Pierce, 73, former state senator, and prominent in the Masonic fraternity in California, died at Oakland. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lena C. Pierce.

Treffle R. La Senay, executive secretary of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce, was elected president of the Western Fairs association at the closing session of its annual convention. San Francisco was named the 1929 convention city.

Bert B. Meek, director of the State Department of Public Works, announces calls for bids on general and mechanical work on a cottage for female patients at the Mendocino State Hospital and for construction of a dormitory for blind boys at the California School for Deaf and Blind at Berkeley. The Mendocino bids are to be opened January 8 and those on the Berkeley school work on January 2.

Judge J. T. B. Werne rendered a decision for $7,810 recently in superior court in favor of Henry Eckel against the Springfield Tunnel and Development company. The action was for damages over the loss of a spring on the Eckel property, headwaters of Mormon creek, which was completely dried up through the driving of a tunnel by defendant on adjacent property.

Teaching of traffic safety would be made a part of the course of study in all public schools of the state under a bill that will be sponsored before the forthcoming session of the Legislature by the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California. The bill provides for a compulsory course of safety instruction, primarily devoted to traffic hazards and conditions encountered by children. This move is being made by the two motoring organizations, whose membership totals over 200,000 automobile owners, to reduce the traffic toll among children.

Sam Ferugia, Reedley rancher, lost his appeal from a conviction of murder in the second degree. The State District Court of Appeal refused to heed Ferugia's plea that improper evidence had been admitted during the trial in Fresno last April. Ferugia was convicted of slaying William Pearson during a quarrel on the former's ranch.

Decision to hold a high school cadets military training camp next year, which admit cadets who are too young for the citizens' military training encampments, was reached at Sacramento by Adj. Gen. R. E. Mittelstadt in conference with commandants from seven California schools. Major Z. S. Leymel, Fresno assemblyman, represented the Fresno high school at the conference. Some 300 boys from cadet organizations at Fresno, Dinuba, Galt, Porterville, Sacramento and Oroville will be eligible for the 1929 camp, which will be held April 26 to May 4. If the experiment is a success, General Mittelstadt said that the cadet training program would be expanded to accommodate a greater number in the future. The minimum age for admission will be 15 years.

William John Cooper, retiring state superintendent of public instruction, denied a report originating in Bakersfield to the effect that he had announced his appointment as United States commissioner of education. Cooper said that he paid an official visit to Lawrence E. Chenowith, Bakersfield superintendent of city schools, and the supposed source of the dispatch, but that he gave Chenowith no information concerning the appointment. Recommended to President Coolidge by Senators Hiram W. Johnson and Samuel Shortridge for the federal post, he has been under consideration for two months, Cooper said, but he repeated that he had received no word of confirmation.

The gypsies came, they went, and they came back again. Driving expensive automobiles, a band of gypsies clad in plentiful clothing that once was gay with color, but is now dimmed by grime, swept into Upland, began a quick campaign for money raising, and drove away again, headed west. It wasn't long after the departure that Upland police phones began to ring and stories of swindle and fortune telling were related to police. C. S. Lehman and Lorraine Loch, members of the department hastened after the gypsy band, overtook them and turned them back to Upland. There, in presence of the police and the victims, the gypsies reached into their many folds of clothing and produced the money they had taken from Upland: Due to the number of wanderers in the band there was no place to house them all in jail so the gypsies were driven out of town again and warnings sent ahead to police to keep them under surveillance.

The old system of guarding railroad-highway intersections with a signal man is better than depending upon auto drivers' ability to see automatic signals, one would surmise from a report issued by the State Motor Vehicle Division showing the number of crossing accidents. The report shows that in thirty days twelve auto accidents occurred at California grade crossings where drivers were protected by wigwag signals. Two of these mishaps brought deaths. On the other hand, there was but one nonfatal accident during the same period for crossings guarded by flagmen.

The nation's Christmas tree celebrations was held in General Grant National Park at the foot of the famous Sequoia tree, called "the oldest living thing." The impressive ceremonies were witnessed by a small crowd which assembled in cleared space surrounded by deep snow made dazzlingly beautiful by bright sunshine. The one-way road into the park had been cleared by tractors, but another fall of snow Christmas Eve made the trip a difficult one. Several of those attending the celebration left their automobiles and covered the last few miles on snowshoes.

San Jacinto recently acquired Municipal Airport, Harmon Field, is to be officially dedicated and opened to the flying public on Saturday, January 5, 1929.

Battered by high seas while running for shelter in the face of a driing rain, a rum-running power launch overloaded with liquor "pearl dived" off a sheltered cove "somewhere" on the California coast and sank."

More than 100 passengers on the Monticello Line steamer Calistoga were shaken up recently when the steamed, to avoid colliding with a submarine and a tugboat in a dense fog, crashed into the government dike near the Sperry mill at south Vallejo.

State highway engineers were investigating the mysterious sinking of a section of the state highway, 28 miles from Santa Barbara, which wrecked four cars and nearly caused serious injury to their occupants. Before dawn revealed the gap in the road two automobiles had overturned and burned, another lost a wheel, a fourth lost two tires and a number of others were stalled with broken springs. In some sections of the sunken highway the roadbed dropped a depth of 18 inches. One of the cars which burned was driven by Mrs. Mora M. Brookes, 325 Vernon street, Oakland. Mrs. Brooks and her daughter, who was riding with her, crawled to safety barely in time to escape cremation.

Max Radin, professor of jurisprudence at the University of California, has plans for a "floating university" all his own. He will take a small party of students and others on a personally conducted European tour next summer, leaving New York June 7 and returning to Montreal August 19. The tour will include England, Belgium Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France.

A bank cashier carrying $14,000 recently refused to be held up at the door of the Hays National Bank in Haysborough, and two bandits fled after firing four shots at him. The cashier, Murray Coon, and a teller who accompanied him, were not injured.

Announcement that they are willing to try all criminal cases without a jury, as allowed by the recently approved amendment to the California constitution, was made recently by District Attorney Earl Warren and Public Defender Willard W. Shea of Alameda county.

Keeping the wolf from the door has become almost a literal necessity to indigents at the San Mtaeo County Relief Home. Supervisor Hickey reports to his colleagues that packs of coyotes are "running through the adjoining hills like sheep," having been driven out of the higher reaches by prolonged cold. On his recommendation the board asked the State Department of Agriculture to do something about it.

Three days and three nights in the County Jail face the American Legion commander of either Fresno post or Karl Rock post of Stockton. The rival cities have an American Legion membership drive on among World War Veterans and the commander of the losing organization is to spend three days in jail. Otto E. Sandman is commander of the Stockton Legionnaires, while Arthur Allyn is the Fresno World War veteran who will "do time" if his city is the loser in the membership drive.

A twelfth department of California's state government, to be known as the "Department of Veterans and Military Affairs," will be proposed at the coming session of the state legislature, it was learned. The new department would include five divisions—the California National Guard, the Veterans' Welfare Board, Women's Relief Corps, the State Athletic Commission, and the Yountville Home for Veterans—according to plans now under way.

Expansion of the special nominee system by which specially qualified inexperienced teachers are taken into the Oakland Public School system was approved by the Oakland Board of Education on recommendation of Willard E. Givens, superintendent of Schools. By the system as proposed by Givens and the superintendent's council, a preferred list of at least five graduates from each of the twelve California teacher training institutions will be set up each year. At least one graduate of each insitution will be appointed provided that the total number of inexperienced teachers shall not exceed one-third of the new teachers appointed.

"Oleo." That's short for oleomargaine. And that butter substitute bobs up from the legislature to legislature as the lubricant of numerous high geared battles. The winter of 1929 will be no exception, if the declarations of the State Retail Grocers' Association shall avail. According to statements made to various legislators, the association is going to urge a bill upon the 1929 session that will eliminate the license fee paid to the State by retail and wholesale dealers in the product.

William John Cooper, state superintendent of public instruction has been appointed United States commissioner of education, according to announcement made in Bakersfield. Cooper is a former Red Bluff boy.

Assembly-elect R. R. Ingles met with the Fort Bragg Gun Club recently to go over matters of impending legislation affecting the coast section. Representatives of the recently formed clubs of both Point Arena and Mendocino were present. A committee of two from each club was named and went into the several matters considered of principal importance.

Cascades of wine, good quality, coursed down a hillside out on the Yuba Vineyards tract, southeast of Marysville, recently, and formed pools and lakes in the low places when more than 10,000 gallons of the illicit beverage were turned loose by Sheriff C. J. McCoy, Constable Jim Chapman and three deputies armed with axes and sledge hammers. The wine destroyed was valued at more than $25,000 at wholesale prices and is said to have cost a dollar a gallon, or $10,000 to make while the cooperage in which it was contained was valued at about $2,000.

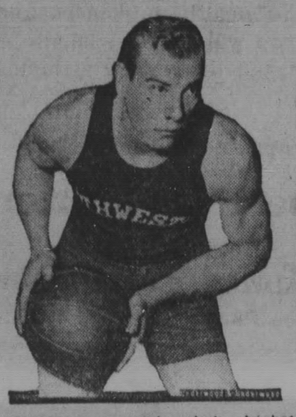
World's Record

Otto Stein, Jr., and Roy Nelson, both of St. Louis, created a new doubles record in the Mid-West Bowling tournament at St. Louis when they rolled 1,393. The total exceeds by 13 pins the best A. B. C. doubles figure, held by C. Thoma and H. Thoma of Chicago. The old Mid-West record of 1,345 was made only ten days ago by Roy Fleish and Hi Meyer, of St. Louis, while the A. B. C. mark of 1,380 was made in 1924.

Tallest Cage Team



Northwestern university's basket ball team is the tallest in the history of that institution. There are no outstanding giants when individual stature is considered, but the squad is exceptionally well balanced in height, there being only four inches difference between the tallest and the smallest players. The tallest is 6 feet 2 inches and the shortest 5 feet 10 inches. Capt. Hal Gleichmann is one of the tallest players.

Rabid Rooter Begs Dan Green to Bring Ball In

Like most human beings, a ball player always enjoys a joke on the other fellow and sometimes on himself, relates Billy Evans in a recent article in Liberty Weekly. But when the going has been tough, he sometimes finds it difficult to see the humor in the sally that singles him out as its victim.

The White Sox had an outfielder, some years ago, named Danny Green. He was a good performer, very fast, and might have been a great star if he had had a decent throwing arm. But his wing was weak, and the opposition know it and frequently ran the bases wild on him.

During the game I have in mind, the opposition had scored twice from second base on Texas leaguers—flies that clear the infield and fall just in front of the outfielders. Green had fielded both of them cleanly and had plenty of time to cut his men off at the plate, but his two throws had been atrocious. Late in the game another ball was hit to him under exactly the same conditions, and a rabid rooter decided to give Danny a little coaching.

"Bring it in, Danny," he pleaded. "Don't throw it; run with it."

Everyone on the field got a huge laugh out of it, except Green. I imagine he thought it a pretty poor joke.

Babe Ruth's Trust Fund Is Increased by $10,000

Babe Ruth's trust fund has grown by $10,000.

The big sock man of the New York Yankees went to town, visited his bank and deposited enough cash to increase his trust fund to a grand total of $130,000. The Babe started the fund after his disastrous season of 1925, arranging the investment so that he would not touch the principal. The fund now assures the Babe a yearly income of $10,000 or thereabouts. Practically all of the principal has come from what Ruth terms "commercial by-products," such as barnstorming trips, vaudeville, the movies and advertising.

Casey Runs Mud Hens

According to word from Toledo, no successor will be named for Dick Meade who resigned as president of the club. James McGraw will continue as secretary and Charles D. (Casey) Stengel will take on added responsibilities as manager. The chief owners of the club may get together and name a nominal head later on, but for the time being the business of the club will be conducted without a president in fact, Stengel taking it on himself to run everything.

Almost Perfect

Capt. Walter Holmer of the Northwestern 1928 football team established a perfect record for calling the toss at the start of each game, and almost established a perfect mark in place kicking at the points after touchdowns. He called the turn of the coin correctly each of the eight times, and it wasn't until the final game with Dartmouth that he missed a place kick. The Purple line failed to hold, and Andres, who played a stellar game at center for Dartmouth, broke through and blocked his attempt. He made all the rest, notching eight out of nine during the season.

ADMITS CLIMATE MADE HIS TEAM

Coach "Pop" Warner Believes in Tricky Plays.

When talking about his great Stanford football eleven which overwhelmed the Army, its veteran coach, Glen Warner, gives as much credit to the California climate as to the amazing assortment of trick plays which dazzled the thousands at the Yankee stadium, including the Cadets.

"Yes," said the kindly and contemplative "Pop," while in New York, "there are some big, strong boys out there. The material is good and it's well distributed among the leading schools. But except for Artman, the 232 pound tackle, and Fleischhacker, the 220 pound quarter back, we did not outweigh the Army much, if any. Those two men, incidentally, would be better football players, if they lost some of that weight.

"I do think, though, that the Far West has an advantage in maturity that is probably due to climatic conditions. I have an idea a boy of twenty from out there is as mature as a boy of twenty-one here is the East.

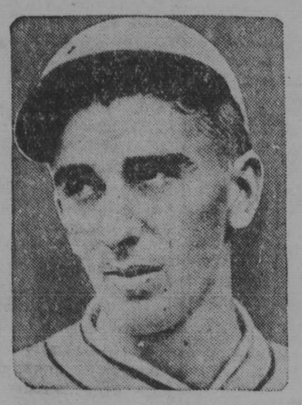
"Another thing is that while not all of our players are descended from men who settled in the West quite a few of them are and they have the same fighting adventurous spirit."

Even in the development of the open games, the vivid series of thrusts and jabs so well exemplified by the Stanford team, the climate of California has played a big part, Warner believes. Warner also thinks the East has been handicapped by rain and muddy fields.

"When I was coaching at Pittsburgh," he said, "I knew what it was to work up a lot of tricky plays with the ball sometimes going through three or four pairs of hands behind the line, only to strike a rainy day and a drenched field and not be able to use them at all. That probably has something to do with the fact that the East has remained somewhat conservative in its football and still is leaning pretty heavily on the old variety.

"Now the kind of offensive that I like, and a kind I have had a good opportunity to develop on the dry, fast fields of the Far West, is the sort that gains ground steadily and consistently by a series of varied and tricky thrusts. That type of play wears down your opponent and is pretty likely to have a demoralizing effect."

Hubbell Made Good



Hubbell, the Texas rookie pitcher, whom McGraw called to the trenches in midseason in 1928, pitched remarkable ball from his first to his last game. He took his regular turn in every crucial series when the pennant hung in the balance. McGraw took nine young pitchers to the training camp last spring, all promising and many costly ones in the lot, but not one earned a regular berth. At last, in desperation he called Hubbell from Beaumont and the youngster pitched phenomenal ball. It is confidently expected that he will be a star next year.

Notre Dame to Have New Stadium Seating 60,000

A stadium seating 60,000 is expected to be completed before Notre Dame's 1929 football season opens, Coach Knute K. Rockne announced at a chamber of commerce meeting at South Bend.

"It always has been my intention to bring the best teams that I could to South Bend," Rockne said. "If given a stadium, I will bring the best of the nation's elevens here."

Rockne said this year's Notre Dame eleven is one of the most courageous in the school's history.

Mexican Baseball

Ban Johnson returned from a trip to Mexico City. The former president has been sponsoring baseball in the border republic for a number of years and reports splendid progress for the game in the capital city. A number of leagues operate there and the game is played almost the year 'round. A "Johnson day" was put on for him during his visit and about 5,000 fans turned out for the game. He presented a trophy to each of the winning teams.

POULTRY

FLASHLIGHT BIG AID IN CULLING

Shows Many Loafers Among Layers in Hen Flock.

Literally catching the loafers napping is an excellent method of culling the poultry flock, if the culling process is carried on from week to week. Extension specialists in poultry at the Ohio State university suggest that the weekly culling may be done very conveniently with a flashlight when the birds are on the roost at night.

Birds showing shriveled combs or molt, or having empty crops, should be culled. Absence of yellow pigment is one of the indications of a good producer, and it may be difficult, under a flashlight, to determine the coloring of the eyerings, earlobes, vent, beak and shanks. If there is doubt, the birds can be isolated and examined again by daylight. The heavy egg producers will have lost yellow color from the body parts mentioned. However, the color will return should the bird cease to lay.

In the low producer, the comb is pale, small and shriveled, the vent is yellow, shrunken and dry. Eyes are small and shrunken, turning in toward the beak. Shanks are yellow, round and full, the pelvic bones close together, hard and rigid. Space between the pelvic bones and the breast bone is shallow or full of hard fat. The skin is thick and underlaid with fat. The bird is generally narrow across the ribs and hips, and the body is shallow and round.

How Much Does Pullet Cost Till Able to Lay?

The North Carolina State college has conducted several tests to determine the amount of feed required to start a Red, Barred Plymouth Rock or Wyandotte laying pullet. In one series of tests the entire animal feed was milk and in the other meat meal. In the case of the milk-fed pullets it required 20 pounds of feed from the time the pullets were hatched till they began to lay 21 weeks later. This feed cost 71 cents. In the meat meal flock, nine and one-half pounds of mash and nine and one-half pounds of grain were used and the cost was 57 cents. Adding the cost of the chick, and other costs, the S. C. Rhode Island Red, Barred Plymouth Rock or White Wyandotte pullets just in lay would cost $1.50 when milk fed and $1.17 when meat meal fed. These pullets sell for $2 each at laying time. If you have surplus milk, feed it to the growing birds.

For Early Winter and Late Fall Production

With most ordinary flocks only 50 per cent or so of the flock is kept as aged hens, the other half being pullets, and the purpose of this is to provide for early winter and late fall egg production. Pullets, when hatched early and properly fed, will begin laying in October or November and lay quite heavily during this season of the year. Hens that are one year of age or older rarely begin laying before late December or early January. They do their heaviest laying during the late winter and early spring months. Therefore, to balance egg production it is necessary to have approximately half the flock old hens and half the flock pullets.

Poultry Facts

Birds that are not fit to be kept over as breeders should be disposed of at once.

* * *

Moldy or spoiled feed is always dangerous. It causes loss of appetite, diarrhea, fungus growth in the "innards," and often kills the fowls.

* * *

Don't be afraid to feed oats, especially if you can get heavy white oats. They are a great poultry feed, unless too much hull and not enough kernel.

* * *

If laying fowls lose weight, give them more grain. If they're lazy, heavy, and laying poorly, cut the grain down, so they'll eat more mash.

* * *

Corn, also barley, if fed, should be given in the evening, because these feeds provide needed heat for the birds during cold nights on the roosts.

* * *

Improve your flock next year by getting some good males to breed with them. Start right now to looking or writing around and locate some good ones.

* * *

Turkeys will begin laying indoors, even in the late winter months, if they are well sheltered and given a good laying mash.

* * *

There is plenty of room for more poultry meat and it pays to keep a flock of good meat fowls that have been bred for egg production.

* * *

Don't think you have to keep Leghorns to get eggs. Any breed or variety can be bred for egg production. It is a matter of strain more than breed.

* * *

It is a good plan to save some of those oat and wheat bundles to throw in later and let the hens thresh their own grain. The exercise is good for them, they like to do it, and you thus keep the litter freshened up.

* * *

A small amount of wheat, oats or kafir scattered in the straw at morning will keep the hens interested in scratching. In some cases also it is advisable to give a very light grain feed at noon to stimulate activity.

She—Do you suppose it's the secret service that's mentioned so often in the papers?

NOT A WRESTLER

Mother—"I'm surprised, Ethel, that you should associate with a girl of such rough tendencies as that Miss Brown. Is she a wrestler?" Daughter—"Of course, not, mother. Why do you think so." Mother—"I heard her say she threw another party last night."

In Full Agreement

"I love you above everything else in the world, Miss Emaline."

"Really, now isn't it remarkable how our tastes coincide?"

"Then you love me, too?"

"You? No, not at all. I love as you do—myself, very highly."

Will Find Plenty to Do

Blinks—I see it is predicted disease will be abolished in the next 50 years. What will doctors do then for a living?

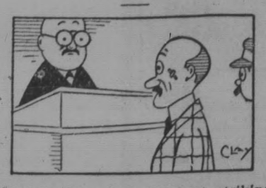
Jinks—Oh, they'll still be kept busy putting pedestrians together again.

The Danger

Father—Does your mother know you are wearing that scanty party dress?

Marion—No, and don't tell—it's her's!

UP AND DOWN



Judge—"You say he kept striking you with his umbrella—was it up or down?" Witness—"Both, your honor—up and down."

Preparation

"Mother writes that she will be here tomorrow for a holiday, dear," announced Mrs. Jones one morning.

"Very well," said her husband, quietly. Patting his little son on the head, he said: "Tommy, didn't you ask me the other day to buy you an air-gun, a trumpet, and a drum?"

"Yes, dad," said Tommy, eagerly.

"Well, I shall bring them tonight."

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

National War Forces

Great Britain has the largest navy in the world; the United States the second largest. China has the largest active army in the world; Russia the second largest. The four nations which have the largest air forces are Great Britain, the United States, Italy and France. No accurate statistics are available on the strength of the foreign air forces, so that it is not possible to tell which of these countries rank first.

Overdid Yawn

At Novato, Calif., Herbert Graham indulged in a prolonged and luxurious yawn. It was a complete success until Graham sought to close his jaws. He discovered they had locked. The victim managed to attract attention of others to his plight and he was taken to a hospital, where physicians restored the jaw to normal.

White "Blackberries"

A. T. Fish, of Industry, Maine, brought to Madison, Maine, a basket of whiteberries, or rather, white blackberries. He found the bush in the woods a year or two ago, took it up and set it out at his home. It has thrived and spread so that he now has a large patch of the bushes. The berries are not large, but are very sweet.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

MENLO PARK

Wednesday evening the Knights of Columbus members here belonging to the council at Palo Alto went to the college town to be present at the opening of the new parish hall in the basement of the recently erected parochial residence. About 200 members of the K. C. were present enjoying a splendid program and aiding in dedicating the new hall. Robert McKenzie, state deputy, gave an address in which he congratulated the Palo Alto council on its new home. Father Carroll also spoke. Big delegations were present from all the bay cities.

Patrick J. McCarthy, a native of Roscommon, Ireland, passed away Thursday of last week at his home in San Francisco following a lingering illness. The deceased was widely known in Menlo Park, having come here many years ago to work on the Nash ranch. The deceased is survived by his widow, a brother, Martin McCarthy, the well-known grocer of this city and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald and Mrs. J. H. Clay of San Francisco. Both were former residents of Menlo Park.

Postmaster Larrecou reports a big increase in the business of the local office during the year just ended, it having advanced forty per cent over the receipts of last year, due to the diligence and ability of the popular postmaster.

The installation of the officers of Menlo Park Lodge No. 651, F. & A. M., was held on Friday, December 28, 1928.

The installing officer was the retiring W. Master, J. Harold McFall, who was assisted by Fred C. Metcalf, P. M., who acted as Master of ceremonies.

The following is a list of the officers for 1929: W. Master, Jay T. Cooper; senior warden, Victor Louis Hugo; junior warden, Bert Tuttle Harper; treasurer, John Benjamin Glunz; secretary, John Ross Hardy; chaplain, Irving M. Smith; senior deacon, Chester Birdsell Buckhout; junior deacon, Tillman Bryan Hunnell; marshal, Fred Clark Metcalf, P. M.; senior steward, Joseph Veverka; junior steward, George Arthur Gardill; tiler, William Finley Baillie.

After the ceremony of installation those present adjourned to the dining room, where a bountiful repast was served, and speech-making was indulged in to a late hour.

A protest signed by ten residents of Stanford Park against the application of Mr. Germann for a permit to erect a bungalow court on lots 2, 3 and 4 was read by the clerk. Also one by the Leland Stanford University was presented. Attorney David of Palo Alto represented the petitioners and in a neat and convincing address asked the council to deny the application for a permit. Mr. Germann spoke also asking that his application be granted and denying some of the allegations of the petition. On motion of Walker, seconded by Blake, the request of the petitioners was granted and the application for a permit denied.

Blake read a resolution asking for a warrant to be forthwith drawn on the treasury for the sum of $250 to pay legal counsel to inquire into the legality of the recall petition filed with the board at the last meeting. Leo Friedman was named as the attorney to make the investigation. Blake said the petition was faulty in many ways and its legality and sufficiency should be looked into. Walker said he was positive the petition was illegal and would not hold water in a court of justice. The matter was referred to the city attorney, who said, that according to a decision rendered on December 20 by the court of appeals, that all such expenses should be borne by the parties sought to be recalled and not by the city. The city attorney read the statute showing that when once the clerk had certified to the sufficiency of the petition the council had no alternative but to call the election. Blake held that the decision referred to was not final for sixty days and therefore his resolution was in order. At this juncture Weeden raised the point of order that in as much as this was a special meeting, no other business could be transacted other than which it was called. The chair declared he was quite sure the recall petition was fraudulent, but he would declare Weeden's point of order well taken and deferred the resolution to the next meeting.

The council then adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

H. M. Adams, president of the Western Pacific Railroad Company, will address the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce and the businessmen at the City Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to secure the cooperation of the chamber and the people generally in securing a franchise for the railroad company to build a track down the peninsula to Redwood City and to later extend the line over the bay to Niles. The people here are heartily in favor of a competiting line on the peninsula and therefore all the assistance possible should be given the project. The chamber will endorse the project.

On Sunday next there will be a reunion of the alumni and alumnae of St. Joseph school in the auditorium of the school building. All the old pupils will come from far and near to attend the meeting and once again view the scenes of their youth at their beloved Alma Mater. Mother Foley, the devoted superintendent, has just completed her twentieth year in that position and naturally she will be showered with congratulations by her former students on this occasion. Mother Foley is beloved by her pupils, past and present, and it will be a happy occasion for her to greet the boys and girls of other days and to recall many happy school day events. The meeting is to be one of the most important in the history of the school and one of the most pleasant.

Many resolutions have been made during the new year. It would be a good thing if all the citizens would resolve to work in harmony and banish bickerings an dspite. The city would then progress.

The Piggly Wiggly opened their new store in Menlo Park on Saturday with a blaze of glory. A crowd isited the large emporium, going away with full baskets. The management reported a big business and is quite encouraged by the sales. It is a wonderful store with a complete stock of merchandise which is sold at bed-rock prices. The meat department is doing a good business. Good service and low prices is the motto of the mammoth concern.

The intention to vote in favor of ratifying the Kellogg peace treaty is expressed in a telegram from San. Samuel Shortridge of Menlo Park to the Palo Alto Kiwanis club in response to a recent communication from the club sent to Washington announcing the organization's endorsement of the treaty. "The manifest purpose of this treaty is to prevent war, and inasmuch as our nation is committed to a policy of peace it would seem to be our duty to approve and ratify it," wired Senator Shortridge. "Something may develop," he added, "to modify my views, but as I now understand it my intention is to vote to ratify this treaty."

Sen. Hiram Johnson in response to the same communication from the club wired as follows: "Views contained in recent communication concerning Kellogg peace pact will have consideration."

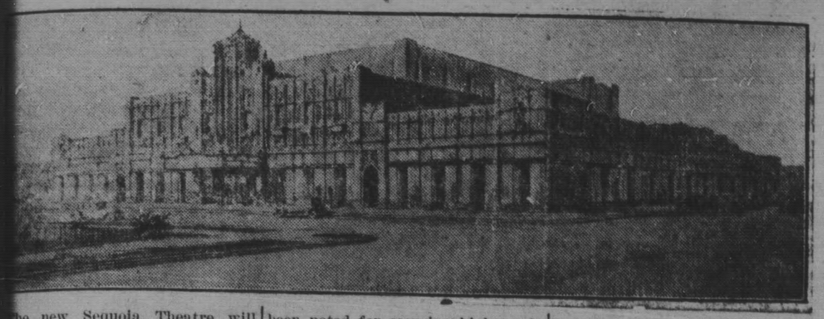
VOLUME LXIX., NUMBER 39. REDWOOD CITY, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 4, 1929. ESTABLISHED IN 1859.

New Sequoia Theatre Opening is Big Step in Progress of Redwood City's Business Center



The new Sequoia Theatre will open for its premier show tomorrow evening. Otway J. Cosgrave, manager of the new house, has been busy this week completing arrangements for this event, which is expected to be a momentus one for Redwood City. The seating capacity of the new house is 1500 and is expected that every available seat will be taken for this event. Cosgrave and Coleman, the assistant managers have made arrangements to handle a record crowd in as short a time as possible in order that patrons may be saved from all unnecessary waiting.

The Arkush Entertainments Co., proprietors of the Sequoia Theatre, as well as houses in all principal cities of the peninsula, have always been noted for securing high grade pictures. The picture for the opening night will be "Three Week Ends" starring the vivacious madcap of filmland, Clara Bow. In the supporting cast is Neil Hamilton, Harrison Ford, Edythe Chapman, Guy Oliver and many others. There is a comedy featuring Laurel and Hardy, the two screamingly funny men of the screen, and there will be other attractions to be announced later by the management. On Sunday, January sixth, the new house will inaugurate its policy of vaudeville and feature pictures. There has been a vaudeville bill of exceptional merit selected for the opening and the feature picture on that day is "Adoration" with Billie Dove and Antonio Moreno. For the week following the attractions are Marion Davies and William Haines in "Show People", "Romance of the Underworld" with Mary Astor and Buster Keaton in "The Cameraman." The prices for the week days are thirty-five cents for general admission and fifty cents on Sunday, loges slightly higher and children's prices are ten cents at all times.

Man Faces Charges Before Two Judges

Sunday was an unlucky day for Howard A. Ward, a mechanic of Mountain View, but Ward is wondering if today may not be even worse. On Sunday as he was driving in this county Ward was stopped by two traffic officers at different points and given citations to appear before two judges on Friday.

The first traffic tag was given to Ward by Traffic Officer Chester Kreiss. Later he was stopped by Officer Douglas Goulson. On the first tag Ward will have to appear before Judge McGrath of San Mateo; on the second, he will appear before Judge E. I. McAuliffe. The first tag was given Ward for driving at a high speed around curves on the Pescadero road, the latter for the same offense on the La Honda grade.

KIWANIS CLUB INSTALLS NEW 1929 OFFICERS

The new officers of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club officially took over the management at the regular weekly meeting in Odd Fellows hall Wednesday noon. The chairman of the meeting was Elmore B. Hinman, the first president of the club. Hinman introduced the president, John E. Laying, who thanked the members for their cooperation during his year in office.

The new president, Edward Harrison, was then called upon and was presented with the president's pin by the retiring president. Harrison and each of the other officers, accepted the new positions with short speeches in which the policies of the club were outlined. The club has adopted as one of its objectives this year the formation of a Boy Scout troop in the South Redwood district, and this movement was stressed by Harrison as one of the important things before the club this year.

The vice-president, Roscoe Stevens; district trustee, John Gill; secretary, Sam Winklebleck; and sergeant-at-arms, Gordon Seeley, were each introduced separately by Hinman. Charles G. Lambert is to be song leader for the next year.

President Harrison then announced his committees for the coming year. Harrison stated that every member of the club is on some committee, and that he hoped that he would receive the complete cooperation of the members during his term as president.

Highway Resort Closed By Sheriff's Office

A lock was placed on the doors of the Orange Blossom at Lomita Park this week by Sheriff J. J. McGrath. It is stated that the place has bee nclosed at the instance of creditors of Miss Muriel Baradat, proprietor, whose claims have not been paid. Miss Baradat formerly conducted the Orange Blossom Cafe in this city.

Charter Council Committee Completes Report

The report of the committee on the city council has been completed and made public by the committee consisting of Henry Witte, Thomas Tuite and Mark Ryan. The report is very thorough, and the committee has asked that it be given the serious consideration of the people of Redwood City.

The committee has especially asked that any objections or suggestions concerning this report be made before the charter is submitted to the people for their vote. In this way the charter may be made representative of the people of the city. The board of freeholders meets every Wednesday evening and the public is invited to these meetings.

The report follows:

Section 1. NAME: The municipal corporation now existing and known as "Redwood City" shall remain and continue a body politic and corporate, as at present, in fact and in law, by the name of "Redwood City," and by such name shall have perpetual sucession.

Section 2. BOUNDARIES: The boundaries of Redwood City shall continue as now established until changed in some manner authorized by law.

Section 3. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES: Redwood City shall remain vested with and continue to have, hold, and enjoy, all property, and rights of action of every nature and description, now pertaining to said municipality, and is hereby declared to be the successor of the same. No right, liability, pending suit or prosecution on behalf of or against the city shall be affected by the adoption of this charter. All contracts entered into to by the city prior to the taking effect of this charter shall continue in full force and effect.

Section 4. POWERS: Redwood City, by and through its council and other officials, shall have and may exercise all powers necessary or appropriate to a municipal corporation and the general welfare of its inhabitants which are not prohibited by the constitution and which it would be competent for this charter to set forth particularly or specifically, including all lawful powers conferred upon the city by the former charter not inconsistent with the provisions hereof, provided that where the general laws of the state provide a procedure for the carrying out and enforcement of any rights or powers belonging to the city, said procedure shall control and be followed [illegible] procedure shall [illegible] in this charter or [illegible] powers of the city [illegible] ed or implied, shall [illegible] the manner prescribed [illegible] ter or, if not prescribed [illegible] in the manner provided [illegible] or resolution of the [illegible]

Section 5. ELECTION: [illegible] eral municipal elections [illegible] held in said city on the [illegible] day in April of each [illegible] year under and pursuant [illegible] visions of the general [illegible] state of California, [illegible] tions in the cities of the [illegible] so far as the same may [illegible] ble, and except as herein [illegible] provided. to authorize any municipal or local public improvement, or the levy of assessments therefor, or to create a municipal bonded indebtedness, shall be held in conformity with any general law of the state relative thereto under which any such proceeding is instituted by the council in case such general law provides for the procedure and manner of holding elections thereunder.

Section 6. CANVASS OF RETURNS: The council of said city shall meet at its usual meeting place on the first Monday after any municipal election, duly canvass the returns and declare the result thereof, and install the newly elected officers, if any.

Section 7. INITIATIVE REFERENDUM AND RECALL: Ordinances may be initiated, or the referendum exercised on ordinances passed by the council, under and in accordance with the constitution and general laws of the state, and any elective officer may be recalled from office under and in pursuance of the provisions of the constitution and general laws; provided, however, that in no case shall candidates be elected to fill the place or places of any officer sought to be recalled, but in case of such recall such office shall be deemed vacant and shall be filled by appointment like other vacancies in elective offices; provided further, that should a majority, or more, of the council be recalled, the city clerk shall call a special election to fill such vacancies, which shall be held within sixty days of the existence thereof. Petitions for exercising the initiative, referendum or recall, may be circulated or deposited for signatures in not less than three public places in the city, to be designated by the council. Notice of the deposit thereof shall be given by publication three or more times in one or more newspapers published and circulated in said city. The council shall provide byordinance the detailed procedure for carrying out the provisions of this section.

Section 8. ELECTIVE OFFICERS: The elective officers of Redwood City shall be seven councilmen who shall be elected from the city at large at a general municipal election therein.

Section 9. ELIGIBILITY OF ELECTIVE OFFICERS: No person shall be eligible for election to, or to hold, any elective office of said city unless he shall have been a resident and elector thereof for at least three years next preceding his election thereto, or his appointment to fill a vacancy therein.

Section 10. THE MAYOR: The council shall choose one of their number to serve as president of the council, and to be known as mayor. His term as mayor shall be two years. In the name and on behalf of the city he shall sign all legal instruments and documents to which the city is a party except where otherwise provided herein or by general law or ordinance. He shall represent the city in all ceremonial functions of a patriotic or social character when it appears to him desirable that the city be officially represented thereat, and shall, consistent with the provision thereof, possess such other powers and perform such other duties, as may be prescribed by this charter, by law, by ordinance, or by resolution of the council.

The mayor shall be the executive head of the city. In case of riot, insurrection, or extraordinary emergency, he shall assume general control of the city government and all of its branches, and shall be responsible for the suppression of disorders and the restoration of normal conditions. During the temporary absence of or disability of the mayor, the council shall choose one of its members to act as mayor pro tempore.

Section 11. THE COUNCIL: The council shall be comprised of seven councilmen, including the mayor, and shall be the legislative body of the city, each of the members of which, including the mayor, shall have the right to vote upon all questions before it.

Councilmen shall be elected at each general municipal election and shall hold office for the term of four years from and after the Monday next succeeding the day of such election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The councilmen in office at the time of this charter taking effect shall continue in office until the end of the terms for which they were respectively elected.

The councilmen shall receive as compensation $20 per month. No councilman shall be eligible during his term of office or for one year thereafter to hold any other office or employment with the city, except as a member of any board, commission, or committee thereof, of which he is constituted such member by general law or by this charter.

All powers granted to and vested in Redwood City by law or by provisions of this charter shall, except as herein otherwise provided be exercised by the council, to be designated the "council of Redwood City". The council hsall be the governing body of the city and subject to the express limitations of this charter, shall be vested with all the powers necessary or convenient for a complete and adequate system of municipal government, consistent with the constitution of the state, including all powers now or hereafter granted by general law to boards of trustees of municipalities.

Section 12. MEETINGS OF THE COUNCIL: The council shall provide by ordinance for the time and place of holding its meetings and the manner in which its special meetings may be called; provided, however, that there shall be at least two regular meetings in each month. Any regular meeting may be adjourned to a date and hour certain, and such adjourned meeting shall be a regular meeting for all purposes. All legislative sessions of the council, whether regular or special, shall be open to the public.

Section 13. QUORUM: A majority of the council shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but a less number may adjourn from time to time and postpone the consideration of, or action upon, pending business in like manner. Attendance at meetings of absent members of the council may be compelled in such manner and under such penalties as may be prescribed by ordinance.

Section 14. CONDUCT OF MEETINGS: The council shall determine its own rules of procedure, and may punish its members or other persons present at any meeting, for disorderly conduct.

Section 15. LEGISLATION: The council shall act in legislative matters by ordinance or resolution only. Other action of the council, unless herein otherwise provided, may be taken by resolution, motion or order.

The ayes and noes shall be taken upon the passage of all ordinances and resolutions and entered upon the record of the proceedings of the council. Upon the request of any members of the council the ayes and noes shall be taken and recorded upon any vote. All members present at any meeting must vote unless disqualified, in which case the disqualification shall be publicly declared and a record thereof made.

No ordinance or resolution shall be passed without receiving the affirmative votes of at least a majority of the members of the council present.

Each ordinance shall be headed by a brief title which shall be indicative of the purport thereof. It shall be numbered when adopted.

The ordaining clause of all ordinances adopted by the council shall be, "The Council of Redwood City do ordain as follows:" The ordaining clause of all ordinances passed by the vote of the electors of the city, through the exercise of the initiative shall be, "The People of Redwood City do ordain as follows:"

No ordinance shall be passed by the council on the day of its introduction, or within five days thereafter, or at any time other than at a regular meeting, or until its publication at least once in the official newspaper of the city at least three days before its adoption. In case of an ordinance being amended before its final adoption, and after its publication, it shall in like manner be republished in full as amended at least one day before its adoption as amended; provided, however, that where such amendment is made for the correction of clerical errors or omissions of form only, then such ordinances need not be given a first reading or a republication as corrected.

Except as otherwise provided by general law, or this charter, no action providing for any specific public improvements, or for the appropriation or expenditure of public money, in any amount over five hundred dollars, or for the acquisition, sale, lease, incumbrancing, or disposition of, any real property or the city, or any interest therein, or for the levying of any tax or assessment, or the granting of any franchise, or for the establishing or changing fire limits, or businesss or residential zones, for the imposing of any penalty, shall be taken except by ordinance.

No ordinance or portion thereof shall be repealed except by ordinance. No ordinance shall be revised, re-enacted, or amended by reference to its title only; but the ordinance to be revised or re-enacted, or the section or sections thereof to be amended, or the new section, or sections to be added thereto, shall be set forth and adopted according to the method provided in this section for the enactment of ordinances, and such revision, re-enactment, amendment or addition, shall be done by ordinance only.

All ordinances shall be signed by the mayor and attested by and filed with the city clerk.

Section 16. WHEN ORDINANCE EFFECTIVE: Except as otherwise provided herein every ordinance and every measure passed by the council granting any franchise or privilege shall go into effect at the expiration of 30 days after its final passage, unless otherwise provided in said ordinance or measures. But ordinances declared by the council to be necessary as emeregency measures for the immediate preservation of public peace, health or safety, containing a statement of the reasons for their urgency and passed by five-sevenths vote of the whole council, ordinances ordering or otherwise relating to elections, and ordinances relating to public improvements, the cost of which is to be borne wholly or in part by special assessments, may go into effect at the will of the council.

Section 17. CITY PLANNING COMMISSION: There shall be a city planning commission consisting of the mayor as an ex-officio member without vote except in case of a tie; the city attorney; the city engineer; and six citizens to be appointed by the council to serve for six years each, without compensation.

This commission shall have and exercise all powers and duties which are now or may hereafter be granted to or imposed upon said commission or department by state law, and such additional powers and duties as may be granted or imposed by ordinance.

The members of the present city planning commission in office at the time of this charter taking effect shall continue in office until the end of the term for which they have been respectively appointed.

Is it Worth While — to budget?

We hear this question asked almost every day—most frequently about this time of year. Budgeting household expenses and then living within the budget is no small task. Nevertheless, it most decidedly is worth while. In our daily contact with and service to hundreds of thousands of families throughout the West, we have a wonderful opportunity to study this question. It is our observation that—aside from those families having unusually large incomes—the most successful and contented are those who budget their expenditures and adhere to their plans as rigidly as circumstances will permit. Almost invariably such families buy all of their foods at Safeway Stores.
